Cookies

This Website may use cookies. Cookies are small data files generally comprised of a string of text and numbers that assign your computer a unique identifier. They collect information from your computer and allow your computer to have a “dialogue” with the Website and gives you a more convenient and personalized experience with the Website. If you do not want the Website to use cookies with your computer, then you must adjust your browser settings in order to disable them. Please note, however, that the disabling of cookies may prevent you from fully accessing all features of the Website. If you require any assistance in disabling cookies, please contact your browser company.

Social Networking Data.

In the event that Company allows you to integrate any social media function—e.g. use of Facebook, Twitter, or LinkedIn—into your use of this Website, the Company may collect your username associated with any such social media website you use. We may also collect any information that you make public through that website or that such website has shared with us, including, but not limited to profile information, pages you have “liked,” and friend lists.

Disclosure and Use of Information

Company may transfer your personal or personally identifiable information when sharing information with its parents or subsidiaries or to a third party in a sale of the Website or Company.

Company may also transfer your personal or personally identifiable information to respond to a duly authorized subpoena or court order, to respond to regulatory requests by government authorities, to protect the safety or security of Company, the Website, its employees, and its users, and, where necessary, to protect against fraud, false advertising, or the violation of any law, statute, ordinance, regulation, or treaty, whether local, state, provincial, national or international.

Security of Information

Company works to protect the security of your personal and personally identifiable information using commercially reasonable security measures and has implemented industry standard encryption to protect against unauthorized access to or interception of your personal and personally identifiable information. However, no security measures entirely impenetrable. As such, Company is not responsible for the circumvention of its security measures by any User or third parties.

Opting-Out

If you have provided an e-mail address to Company, then from time to time, Company may send you informational, promotional, educational, research, or marketing emails. You may unsubscribe from these e-mails at any time by contacting Company at support@evaluate8trading.com with “No Emails” in your subject heading.

Further, should you not want Company to collect any additional personal and personally identifiable information from you pursuant to this Privacy Policy, you can discontinue use of this Website. It is urged that you also then adjust your browser settings in order to clear any cookies that may be remaining on your browser from prior use of the Website.

Children Under 13

Company does not knowingly collect personal information from anyone under 13 years of age.
